The Intern acknowledges that only the options selected and completed by the Company shall govern the internship engagement.

The Intern further acknowledges that compensation structures, work arrangements, reporting structures, shifts, training requirements, verification requirements, project assignments, client assignments, role responsibilities, and internship terms may vary depending upon business requirements, client requirements, operational needs, organizational priorities, and Company policies.

The Company reserves the right to assign, reassign, rotate, modify, or transfer roles, responsibilities, projects, departments, clients, shifts, reporting structures, work locations, and operational requirements during the internship period based on business needs.

The sections that follow shall form an integral and binding part of this Internship Offer Letter.

SECTION 2: INTERNSHIP ENGAGEMENT, TRAINING, LEARNING EXPECTATIONS & CONTINUATION CRITERIA

2.1 Nature of Engagement

The internship is a structured learning, training, and professional development engagement designed to provide practical exposure, industry experience, technical knowledge, operational understanding, and professional skill development.

The internship does not constitute permanent employment and shall not be construed as an employer-employee relationship unless otherwise communicated by the Company in writing.

Successful completion of the internship may make the Intern eligible for consideration for employment opportunities, Pre-Placement Offers (PPOs), extended internships, contractual engagements, or future opportunities, subject to business requirements, performance, conduct, organizational needs, available openings, and Company discretion.

2.2 Training Period

Where applicable, the Intern shall undergo a training period as specified in the Internship Configuration Sheet.

The purpose of the training period is to assess learning ability, adaptability, technical competency, professional conduct, communication skills, attendance, commitment, and suitability for internship responsibilities.

The standard training period shall be thirty (30) calendar days unless otherwise specified by the Company in writing. The Company reserves the right to extend, repeat, suspend, or discontinue the training period based on performance, business requirements, operational needs, attendance, conduct, compliance requirements, or other reasonable factors.

Completion of the training period shall not automatically guarantee continuation into a stipend-bearing, project-based, commission-based, deferred-compensation, or extended internship phase.

2.3 Learning & Adaptability Expectations

The Intern acknowledges that the internship is intended to be a learning-oriented engagement.

The Intern may be required to learn, practice, utilize, and adapt to new tools, software, technologies, workflows, methodologies, platforms, processes, systems, responsibilities, projects, and operational requirements during the course of the internship.

The Intern agrees to actively participate in assigned learning activities, assessments, training programs, workshops, reviews, mentoring sessions, compliance sessions, and skill development initiatives communicated by the Company.

Refusal to learn, persistent unwillingness to adapt, repeated failure to participate in mandatory training activities, or refusal to undertake reasonable role-related responsibilities may be considered during performance evaluations and continuation decisions.

2.4 Role Flexibility & Assignment of Responsibilities

The Company reserves the right to assign, reassign, rotate, modify, expand, reduce, or transfer responsibilities, projects, assignments, workflows, technologies, clients, departments, operational functions, and reporting structures during the internship period.

The Intern acknowledges that responsibilities may evolve based on business needs, project requirements, client requirements, operational priorities, organizational restructuring, capacity planning, performance considerations, or professional development objectives.

2.5 Performance Review & Evaluation

The Intern's performance may be evaluated periodically based on factors including but not limited to:

- Attendance and punctuality
- Learning progress and adaptability
- Technical competency
- Quality of work
- Productivity and output
- Communication and responsiveness

- Collaboration and teamwork
- Timely completion of assignments
- Compliance with Company policies
- Contribution to projects and organizational objectives

The frequency, methodology, and outcome of such evaluations shall be determined by the Company.

2.6 Continuation Criteria

Continuation of the internship beyond any applicable training period shall be subject to satisfactory performance, attendance, conduct, adaptability, learning progress, compliance with Company policies, project requirements, client requirements, and business needs.

The Company reserves the right to discontinue, modify, suspend, conclude, or alter the internship where continuation criteria are not met or where business, operational, project, client, compliance, security, or organizational requirements so necessitate.

2.7 Internal Training & Professional Development

The Intern may be required to attend mandatory training sessions, assessments, reviews, mentoring programs, workshops, compliance programs, certifications, meetings, knowledge-sharing sessions, and professional development activities conducted by the Company.

Participation in such activities may form part of the overall internship evaluation process and may influence continuation decisions, compensation eligibility, certification eligibility, recommendation letters, PPO consideration, and performance assessments.

2.8 Compliance with Managerial Directions

The Intern shall comply with reasonable instructions, assignments, workflows, operational requirements, reporting requirements, process changes, project requirements, and directions communicated by authorized Company representatives in connection with their internship responsibilities.

2.9 Client-Specific Requirements

Where assigned to client-facing projects, client systems, client data, client communications, or client engagements, the Intern may be required to comply with additional client-specific policies, security requirements, onboarding procedures, confidentiality obligations, documentation requirements, training requirements, operational guidelines, and compliance standards.

Failure to comply with applicable client-specific requirements may result in reassignment, suspension of access, removal from client engagements, performance action, or other corrective measures deemed appropriate by the Company.

2.10 Business & Operational Requirements

The Intern acknowledges that internship assignments, projects, departments, responsibilities, compensation structures, continuation decisions, reporting structures, and operational requirements may be influenced by business conditions, project availability, client requirements, organizational priorities, resource planning, operational considerations, compliance obligations, and strategic business decisions.

The Company reserves the right to take such actions as may be reasonably required to meet business, client, operational, security, compliance, and organizational requirements.

SECTION 3: COMPENSATION STRUCTURE, STIPEND PROCESSING & PAYMENT TERMS

3.1 Compensation Applicability

The compensation structure applicable to the Intern shall be the one selected and approved by the Company in the Internship Configuration Sheet.

Any compensation model not selected by the Company shall be deemed inapplicable and shall not create any entitlement, expectation, or claim on the part of the Intern.

3.2 Unpaid Internship

Where the Intern is engaged under an Unpaid Internship structure, no stipend, commission, project compensation, incentive, reimbursement, bonus, allowance, or other monetary consideration shall be payable unless otherwise expressly approved by the Company in writing.

The Intern acknowledges that the primary objective of an unpaid internship is learning, exposure, training, skill development, and professional experience.

3.3 Training Period Compensation

Where a training period is applicable, compensation during the training period shall be governed by the compensation structure selected by the Company in the Internship Configuration Sheet.

Successful completion of training shall not automatically create entitlement to compensation, stipend revisions, incentives, commission structures, project assignments, or continuation of the internship.

3.4 Fixed Stipend Internship

Where the Intern is engaged under a Fixed Stipend Internship structure, the Company shall provide the stipend amount specified in the Internship Configuration Sheet, subject to compliance with attendance requirements, conduct requirements, internship obligations, and Company policies.

The stipend amount may vary between roles, functions, departments, projects, business requirements, and internship structures.

3.5 Project-Based Compensation

Where the Intern is engaged under a Project-Based Compensation structure, compensation shall be determined based on project assignments, approved

3.6 Commission-Based Compensation

Where the Intern is engaged under a Commission-Based Compensation structure, commission eligibility, commission calculations, payout criteria, qualifying events, performance thresholds, and payment timelines shall be governed by Company policies and the applicable compensation terms communicated by the Company.

3.7 Business Development Internship Compensation

Business Development Interns may be engaged under commission-only, stipend-only, stipend-plus-commission, incentive-based, or hybrid compensation structures as determined by the Company.

Where applicable, commission eligibility may commence from the beginning of the internship period, subject to compliance with Company requirements and applicable commission policies.

3.8 Incentives, Bonuses & Performance Rewards

The Company may, at its sole discretion, provide performance incentives, commissions, rewards, bonuses, referral incentives, project incentives, client acquisition incentives, milestone rewards, recognition awards, or other performance-linked benefits.

Such incentives shall not be considered guaranteed compensation and may be modified, revised, suspended, withdrawn, introduced, or discontinued at the Company's discretion.

3.8A Deferred & Conditional Compensation Structures

Where the Internship Configuration Sheet specifies a Deferred Compensation Structure, Conditional Stipend Structure, Deferred Stipend Structure, Revenue-Linked Structure, Grant-Linked Structure, Project-Monetization Structure, Profitability-Linked Structure, or other similar arrangement, the Intern acknowledges that stipend accrual, approval, processing, and payout may be subject to business conditions, grant availability, project monetization, profitability, cash-flow availability, operational requirements, management approval, client payment realization, or other criteria determined by the Company.

Under such structures, stipend amounts may accrue, be deferred, be processed in stages, or be released upon the occurrence of specified business, operational, financial, funding, or project-related conditions communicated by the Company. www.namaah.io

The Intern acknowledges and accepts such arrangements where expressly identified in the Internship Configuration Sheet and agrees that such structures shall form part of the applicable compensation model governing the internship.

3.9 Stipend Processing Cycle

Unless otherwise communicated by the Company, stipend payments shall be processed on a calendar-month basis.

The standard stipend processing cycle shall ordinarily occur between the 5th and 10th day of the month following the applicable earning period.

The Intern acknowledges that stipend eligibility, work periods, and stipend processing cycles are independent of individual joining dates, training completion dates, or anniversary dates.

3.10 Pro-Rata Calculation

Where an Intern joins, exits, becomes stipend-eligible, or undergoes a compensation change during a calendar month, the applicable compensation may be calculated on a pro-rata basis for the relevant period.

3.11 Compensation Processing Cycle

The Company shall endeavour to process approved compensation within the standard compensation cycle communicated to the Intern.

The Intern acknowledges that the Company operates in a dynamic startup environment where compensation processing may be influenced by operational cycles, business requirements, client billing cycles, financial processing schedules, banking processes, compliance requirements, administrative procedures, public holidays, and other business-related factors.

Accordingly, compensation processing timelines may vary from time to time based on such requirements. The Intern acknowledges and accepts this operating framework as part of the internship engagement.

Nothing contained herein shall be construed as a waiver of the Company's commitment to process and disburse duly earned and approved compensation in accordance with the applicable internship structure and Company policies.

3.12 No Immediate Payment Expectation

The Intern acknowledges that compensation is processed according to the Company's compensation cycle and not based on individual completion dates, milestone dates, training completion dates, or personal expectations unless specifically approved otherwise by the Company in writing.

3.13 Attendance & Compensation Eligibility

Compensation eligibility may be influenced by attendance compliance, approved leave records, internship participation, project participation, completion of assigned responsibilities, internship deliverables, reporting requirements, timesheet requirements, onboarding requirements, documentation requirements, policy compliance, and overall internship obligations.

Unauthorized absence, attendance irregularities, policy violations, abandonment of internship, misconduct, or failure to satisfy internship requirements may impact compensation eligibility to the extent permitted by applicable law and Company policy.

3.14 Financial Records & Verification

The Company reserves the right to review, verify, audit, and validate attendance records, timesheets, project records, deliverables, commission records, performance records, productivity records, and other relevant documentation for compensation administration purposes.

3.15 Commitment to Approved Compensation

The Company remains committed to honouring and processing all duly earned and approved compensation, stipends, commissions, incentives, project payments, and other approved monetary benefits in accordance with the applicable internship structure.

Variations in processing timelines arising from legitimate business, operational, administrative, financial, banking, compliance, or organizational requirements shall not, by themselves, affect the Intern's eligibility for duly approved compensation.

The Intern acknowledges that compensation shall be governed by the Company's approved compensation cycle and applicable internship structure rather than individual expectations, personal assumptions, joining dates, milestone dates, training-completion dates, or anniversary dates.

SECTION 4: WORK SCHEDULE, ATTENDANCE & LEAVE SUMMARY

4.1 Working Schedule

The internship shall ordinarily follow a six (6) day working week unless otherwise specified by the Company.

4.2 Shift Allocation

Interns may be assigned General, Morning, Evening, Night, Rotational, Flexible, Client-Aligned, or other shifts as determined by the Company.

The Company reserves the right to modify, revise, rotate, reassign, or restructure shift schedules, working hours, weekly offs, and operational rosters based on business, project, client, compliance, operational, or organizational requirements.

4.3 Attendance & Leave Compliance

Interns shall maintain regular attendance, punctuality, participation, reporting compliance, and communication responsiveness throughout the internship period.

Attendance requirements, leave policies, timesheet requirements, reporting requirements, attendance verification procedures, attendance audits, attendance eligibility requirements, attendance irregularities, and related operational requirements shall be governed by the Internship Handbook and applicable Company policies.

4.4 Attendance Impact

Attendance, punctuality, participation, communication responsiveness, reporting compliance, and internship engagement may be considered during performance evaluations, compensation reviews, continuation decisions, certification eligibility reviews, recommendation letter eligibility reviews, PPO consideration, and internship completion assessments.

4.5 Policy Reference

The Intern acknowledges that detailed attendance, leave, reporting, work schedule, shift management, timesheet, communication responsiveness, technical issue reporting, attendance audit, and related operational requirements are contained in the Internship Handbook and form an integral part of this internship engagement.

5.1A Accuracy of Professional Communications

Interns shall ensure that status updates, project updates, completion confirmations, reports, deliverable submissions, timesheets, attendance submissions, and other work-related communications are accurate and made in good faith.

Deliberate misrepresentation, false reporting, fabricated updates, or knowingly misleading communications may constitute misconduct and may result in corrective, disciplinary, or administrative action.

5.2 Official Communication & Escalation

5.6 Continuing Obligations

Certain obligations relating to professional conduct, authorized representation, public communications, confidentiality, Company reputation, client interactions, intellectual property, security, and data protection may continue beyond completion, withdrawal, suspension, abandonment, or termination of the internship to the extent permitted by applicable law and applicable agreements.

SECTION 6: DOCUMENTATION, VERIFICATION, DATA PRIVACY & DIGITAL ACCEPTANCE SUMMARY

6.3 Data Privacy & Information Processing

The Intern acknowledges and consents to the collection, processing, storage, verification, review, transfer, retention, use, disclosure, and management of personal, educational, professional, verification, attendance, compliance, internship, and related information for legitimate business, operational, administrative, security, compliance, legal, educational, and internship-related purposes.

7.6 Training Investment & Professional Commitment

The Intern acknowledges that the Company may invest substantial time, effort, resources, supervision, mentoring, onboarding support, training resources, project allocation efforts, administrative support, operational resources, and business resources in connection with the internship.

The Intern acknowledges that such amount represents a reasonable recovery of onboarding, administrative, operational, and training-related expenditures incurred by the Company and is not intended as a penalty.

The Company may waive, reduce, or recover such amount depending upon the circumstances of separation, completion of handover obligations, notice compliance, and applicable Company policies.

7.7A Misconduct-Related Losses

Nothing contained in the Training Recovery provisions shall limit the Company's right to take appropriate action or seek remedies available under applicable law where losses, liabilities, claims, contractual consequences, client disputes, remediation costs, legal costs, reputational harm, or other damages arise directly from an Intern's fraud, intentional misconduct, deliberate misrepresentation, falsification of records, unauthorized disclosure, client diversion, malicious actions, or willful violation of Company requirements.

The Intern shall provide accurate, complete, and truthful information regarding assigned work, deliverables, project status, progress updates, testing status, research findings, attendance records, reports, and related activities.

The Intern shall not knowingly submit incomplete, unverified, inaccurate, placeholder, materially deficient, AI-generated work that has not been appropriately reviewed, validated, approved, or brought to the required quality standard, or draft work as finalized work, nor falsely represent that assigned work, deliverables, reviews, testing, approvals, or project requirements have been completed when they remain incomplete.

Knowingly providing false, misleading, fabricated, deceptive, or materially inaccurate information regarding internship responsibilities may constitute misconduct and may be considered during performance reviews, continuation decisions, certification eligibility, recommendation letter eligibility, PPO consideration, disciplinary action, separation decisions, and other internship-related determinations.

7.9 Exit Clearance
